The AWS documentation provides the following information
Amazon EC2 Container Service (ECS) allows you to easily run and manage Docker-enabled applications across a cluster of Amazon EC2 instances. Applications packaged as containers locally will deploy and run in the same way as containers managed by Amazon ECS. Amazon ECS eliminates the need to install, operate, and scale your own cluster management infrastructure, and allows you to schedule Docker-enabled applications across your cluster based on your resource needs and availability requirements.

For more information on ECS, please visit the link:

Explanation

You need to have a custom health check which will evaluate the application functionality. Its not enough using the normal health checks. If the application functionality does not work and if you don't have custom health checks, the instances will still be deemed as healthy.

If you have custom health checks, you can send the information from your health checks to Auto Scaling so that Auto Scaling can use this information. For example, if you determine that an instance is not functioning as expected, you can set the health status of the instance to Unhealthy. The next time that Auto Scaling performs a health check on the instance, it will determine that the instance is unhealthy and then launch a replacement instance For more information on Autoscaling health checks, please refer to the below document link: from AWS
