NEW QUESTION: 3

Your network contains a System Center 2012 R2 Configuration Manager Service Pack 1 (SP1) environment.

You are creating a configuration item that contains application settings for Microsoft Office 2013.

You need to detect whether Office 2013 is installed before validating the configuration item.

What should you do?

A. Set Software Inventory to True.

B. Set Hardware Inventory to False.

C. Create a report to display all installed software.

D. Enable Use a custom script to detect this application.

Answer: D

Explanation:

A detection method in Configuration Manager contains rules that check whether an application is already installed on a device. This detection occurs before the application is installed, immediately after the application is installed, and at regular intervals afterward. This detection can prevent Configuration Manager from needlessly reinstalling the application and can also determine whether the user has already uninstalled the application. A custom script can be used to determine the presence of a deployment type.

Note: A System Center 2012 Configuration Manager application contains the files and information that are required to deploy software to a device. An application contains one or more deployment types that comprise the installation files and information that are required to install software. A deployment type also contains rules that specify when and how the software is deployed.
