C. The master file is maintained on magnetic disk in an online, real-time system, the backup procedure most likely to be used is the rollback and recovery method. This method involves the dumping of the master file's contents and associated data structures onto a backup file. In the event of a loss of data, the dump is used together with the transaction log or file to reconstruct the master file.

D. The master file is maintained on magnetic disk in an online, real-time system, the backup procedure most likely to be used is the rollback and recovery method. This method involves the dumping of the master file's contents and associated data structures onto a backup file. In the event of a loss of data, the dump is used together with the transaction log or file to reconstruct the master file.

Answer: C

Explanation:

When an application's master file is maintained on magnetic disk in an online, real-time system, the backup procedure most likely to be used is the rollback and recovery method. This method involves the dumping of the master file's contents and associated data structures onto a backup file. In the event of a loss of data, the dump is used together with the transaction log or file to reconstruct the master file.
