NEW QUESTION: 1

When there are long-running queries, mysqlbackup hangs there to wait for the completion of the queries. You know that the system has only user data on InnoDB and there is no DDL execution during the backup period.

There is no update/alternation to tables with non-InnoDB storage engines.

Which two ways allow the MySQL Enterprise Backup to be executed without being blocked or without locking?

- A. The locked phase at the end of a mysqlbackup run is short (maybe a few seconds), and does not disturb the normal processing of mysqld much. However, use the --only-innodb option to back up only InnoDB tables, to avoid blocking.
- B. The locked phase at the end of a mysqlbackup run is short (maybe a few seconds) and does not disturb the normal processing of mysqld much. However, use --single-user-mode to back up the long-running queries to allow mysqlbackup to run successfully without locking.
- C. Running mysqlbackup from a remote machine enabled you to back up the database without locking.
- D. The locked phase at the end of a mysqlbackup run is short (maybe a few seconds), and does not disturb the normal processing of mysqld much. However, use the --no-locking option to backup up the non-InnoDB files. Note that MyISAM, .frm, and other files copied under the --no-locking setting cannot be guaranteed to be consistent, if they are updated during this final phase of the backup.
- E. There is no extra option. MySQL Enterprise Backup does this automatically by kicking out the long-running queries.
