NEW QUESTION: 2

In your database, the CURSOR_SHARING parameter is set to FORCE.

A user issues the following SQL statement:

```
Select * from SH.CUSTOMERS where REIGN='NORTH'
```

Which two statements are correct?

- A. Adaptive cursor sharing happens irrespective of whether there is a histogram in the REIGN column of the CUSTOMERS table.
- B. Bind peeking will not happen and subsequent executions of the statement with different literal values will use the same plan.
- C. The literal value 'NORTH' is replaced by a system-generated bind variable.
- D. Adaptive cursor sharing happens only if there is a histogram in the REIGN column of the CUSTOMERS table.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

CURSOR_SHARING determines what kind of SQL statements can share the same cursors.

Values:

*FORCE

Forces statements that may differ in some literals, but are otherwise identical, to share a cursor, unless the literals affect the meaning of the statement.

*SIMILAR

Causes statements that may differ in some literals, but are otherwise identical, to share a cursor, unless the literals affect either the meaning of the statement or the degree to which the plan is optimized.

*EXACT

Only allows statements with identical text to share the same cursor.
