NEW QUESTION: 1

Note: This question is part of a series of questions that present the same scenario. Each question in the series contains a unique solution that might meet the stated goals. Some question sets might have more than one correct solution, while others might not have a correct solution.

After you answer a question in this scenario, you will NOT be able to return to it. As a result, these questions will not appear in the review screen.

You plan to create an Azure Databricks workspace that has a tiered structure. The workspace will contain the following three workloads:

- * A workload for data engineers who will use Python and SQL
 - * A workload for jobs that will run notebooks that use Python, Spark, Scala, and SQL
 - * A workload that data scientists will use to perform ad hoc analysis in Scala and R
- The enterprise architecture team at your company identifies the following standards for Databricks environments:

- * The data engineers must share a cluster.
 - * The job cluster will be managed by using a request process whereby data scientists and data engineers provide packaged notebooks for deployment to the cluster.
 - * All the data scientists must be assigned their own cluster that terminates automatically after 120 minutes of inactivity. Currently, there are three data scientists.
- You need to create the Databrick clusters for the workloads. Solution: You create a Standard cluster for each data scientist, a High Concurrency cluster for the data engineers, and a High Concurrency cluster for the jobs. Does this meet the goal?

- A. Yes
- B. No

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

We need a High Concurrency cluster for the data engineers and the jobs.

Note:

Standard clusters are recommended for a single user. Standard can run workloads developed in any language:

Python, R, Scala, and SQL.

A high concurrency cluster is a managed cloud resource. The key benefits of high concurrency clusters are that they provide Apache Spark-native fine-grained sharing for maximum resource utilization and minimum query latencies.
