NEW QUESTION: 1

A network administrator is responsible for securing applications against external attacks. Every month, the underlying operating system is updated. There is no process in place for other software updates.

Which of the following processes could MOST effectively mitigate these risks?

- A. Application change management
- B. Application firewall review
- C. Application patch management

D. Application hardening

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

The question states that operating system updates are applied but other software updates don't.

The 'other software' in this case would be applications.

Software updates includes functionality updates and more importantly security updates. The process of applying software updates or 'patches' to applications is known as 'application patch management'. Application patch management is an effective way of mitigating security risks associated with software applications.

NEW QUESTION: 3

A company deploys Outlook to all users that have iOS and Android devices. The company uses Microsoft Intune to manage mobile devices. You enforce a conditional access policy that requires users to enroll devices in Intune before they can access Exchange ActiveSync data.

Some Android and iOS users access Exchange ActiveSync data by using unmanaged email applications.

You need to ensure that users Exchange ActiveSync data only from Outlook.

What should you do?

- A. Create an Exchange access rule. Select Outlook family and Outlook for Android and iOS as the model.
- B. Configure a custom Open Mobile Alliance Uniform Resource Identifier setting and deploy the setting to all users.
- C. In Intune, create a new compliance policy that forces email accounts to be managed by Intune.
- D. Create a security group for all users that are not using Outlook as the email applications. Configure Exchange Online conditional access policy to exempt members of the group.

Answer: A
