NEW QUESTION: 3

Which of the following is a passive method of training?

- A. case study
- B. vestibule
- C. presentation
- D. seminar

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation: A presentation is a passive method of training. Passive training methods are so designated because the participants are only required to listen, read, or pay attention. In a case study, the participants must strategize a response to a hypothetical situation. In vestibule training, employees participate in a simulation of complex or hazardous tasks. In a seminar, participants engage in a productive conversation with the presenter.
