A company has an HP Unified Wired-Wireless controller that controls HP MultiService Mobility (MSM) APs. The network administrator wants to implement protection against rogue APs in the company's campus environment. Only APs that have approved MAC addresses should be allowed to operate and support clients. Controlled APs should send disassociation frames to prevent clients from connecting to rogue APs.

The administrator sets up APs to monitor the area and creates a permitted MAC address list with the approved AP MAC addresses. The administrator has not configured any other Intrusion Detection System (IDS) settings. Which additional step must the administrator complete?

- A. Configure the permitted vendor and permitted SSID lists.
- B. Deploy the permitted MAC address list as a static attack list to each controlled AP
- C. Enable a dynamic blacklist.
- D. Enable countermeasures.

Answer: D
