NEW QUESTION: 2

You are creating a Domain Template to simplify the process of deploying a domain across multiple hosts.

Which five types of information can be included in a Domain Template? (Choose five.)

- A. LDAP data
- B. Windows Start menu entries
- C. custom folders and files
- D. domain configuration, those included in the config.xmlfile
- E. e-mail notification settings
- F. Windows and UNIX server start scripts
- G. JTA log
- H. Java Enterprise Edition (Java EE) applications and shared libraries

Answer: B,C,D,F,H

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

A: config.xml and any JDBC and JMS resources defined in config.xml are not displayed in the Current Template View pane by default because the Domain Template Builder automatically includes them in the template when creating the template.

B: The Add or Omit Applications screen is displayed only if applications are included in the template or domain that you selected.

C: When you are creating a template, you want the scripts and files that you are packaging with your template to be free of local domain environment settings and ready for use by the Configuration Wizard.

The Domain Template Builder automatically updates any standard scripts included in a template (such as start scripts) by replacing hard-coded values for various domain environment settings with replacement variables.

D: The Specify Start Menu Entries screen prompts you to create items to be added to the Windows Start menu.

E: By default, the Domain Template Builder includes files from the WebLogic domain or template you specified as the source for the new template. If you selected a domain as the source for your new template, some files and directories are included automatically.

You are developing an application that uses a third-party JavaScript library named doWork().

The library occasionally throws an "object is null or undefined" error with an error code of -2146823281.

The application must:

* Extract and handle the exceptions thrown by doWork()

* Continue normal program execution if other exceptions occur

You need to implement the requirements.

Which code segment should you use?

A. Option A

B. Option D

C. Option C

D. Option B

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

* The try statement lets you test a block of code for errors.

The catch statement lets you handle the error.

The JavaScript statements try and catch come in pairs:

```
try {
```

```
Block of code to try
```

```
}
```

```
catch(err) {
```

```
Block of code to handle errors
```

```
}
```

* object.number [= errorNumber]

Returns or sets the numeric value associated with a specific error. The Error object's default property is number.

* Example:

The following example causes an exception to be thrown and displays the error code that is derived from the error number.

{
// Cause an error.
var x = y;
}
catch(e)
{
document.write ("Error Code: ");
document.write (e.number & " 0xFFFF");
document.write ("");
document.write ("Facility Code: ");
document.write(e.number>>16 & " 0x1FFF");
document.write ("");
document.write ("Error Message: ")
document.write (e.message)
}
```

The output of this code is as follows.

Error Code: 5009

Facility Code: 10

Error Message: 'y' is undefined
