NEW QUESTION: 1

In Cisco IOS routers that use low latency queuing, which algorithm is used to presort traffic going into the default queue?

- A. random processing
- B. fair queuing

- C. first-in, first-out
- D. last-in, first-out
- E. weighted round robin

Answer: B

Explanation:

WFQ is a flow-based queuing algorithm used in Quality of Service (QoS) that does two things simultaneously: It schedules interactive traffic to the front of the queue to reduce response time, and it fairly shares the remaining bandwidth between high bandwidth flows. A stream of packets within a single session of a single application is known as flow or conversation. WFQ is a flow-based method that sends packets over the network and ensures packet transmission efficiency which is critical to the interactive traffic. This method automatically stabilizes network congestion between individual packet transmission flows.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Time constraints and expanded needs have been found by an IS auditor to be the root causes for recent violations of corporate data definition standards in a new business intelligence project.

Which of the following is the MOST appropriate suggestion for an auditor to make?

- A. Delay the project until compliance with standards can be achieved
- B. Enforce standard compliance by adopting punitive measures against violators
- C. Achieve standards alignment through an increase of resources devoted to the project
- D. Align the data definition standards after completion of the project

Answer: C

Explanation:

Provided that data architecture, technical, and operational requirements are sufficiently documented, the alignment to standards could be treated as a specific work package assigned to new project resources. The usage of nonstandard data definitions would lower the efficiency of the new development, and increase the risk of errors in critical business decisions. To change data definition standards after project conclusion (choice B) is risky and is not a viable solution. On the other hand, punishing the violators (choice D) or delaying the project (choice C) would be an inappropriate suggestion because of the likely damage to the entire project profitability.

NEW QUESTION: 3

An office worker tries to save a large spreadsheet, but it takes much longer than normal. The worker notifies the network administrator of the noticeable degradation on the network shared drive. The administrator successfully pings the server and ensures it is online. The administrator also notes one red light and one green light displaying on the server's array. Which of the following should be the administrator's NEXT step?

- A. Reseat both hard drives and reboot the server.
- B. Reinstall firmware for the HDD that has failed.
- C. Rebuild the array and restart the server.
- D. Remove and replace the failed drive.

Answer: D
