NEW QUESTION: 2

You are deploying an Azure Kubernetes Services (AKS) cluster that will use multiple containers. You need to create the cluster and verify that the services for the containers are configured correctly and available. Which four commands should you use to develop the solution? To answer, move the appropriate command segments from the list of command segments to the answer area and arrange them in the correct order.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation

Step 1: az group create

Create a resource group with the az group create command. An Azure resource group is a logical group in which Azure resources are deployed and managed.

Example: The following example creates a resource group named myAKScluster in the eastus location.

az group create --name myAKScluster --location eastus

Step 2 : az aks create

Use the az aks create command to create an AKS cluster.

Step 3: kubectl apply

To deploy your application, use the kubectl apply command. This command parses the manifest file and creates the defined Kubernetes objects.

Step 4: az aks get-credentials

Configure it with the credentials for the new AKS cluster.

Example:

az aks get-credentials --name aks-cluster --resource-group aks-resource-group

NEW QUESTION: 3

One of the key stakeholders came to you asking you to add more metrics because she thinks that it would give the portfolio management a better view of the actual progress. For her the more metrics you have the better.

What should your opinion be regarding this?

- A. You should agree, as having more metrics is better
- B. You should disagree and communicate a clear message to the stakeholder that it does not matter how many metrics you have as long as you can fully report the progress
- C. You should disagree and escalate this to the governance board
- D. You should agree as having more metrics is better and because you do not want to say no to a key stakeholder

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

It does not matter how many metrics you have as long as you have it all covered. The scenario here does not require escalation.

The portfolio management office should be prepared to develop new metrics when appropriate and delete or change metrics that are no longer relevant to the stakeholders or that no longer support the organizational strategy and objectives. The quantity of metrics should not overwhelm the stakeholders to ensure the metrics are actively tracked and understood.
