- B. execution of the disaster recovery plan could be impacted.
- C. notification of the teams might not occur.
- D. potential crisis recognition might be ineffective.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation: Execution of the business continuity plan would be impacted if the organization does not know when to declare a crisis. Choices A, C and D are steps that must be performed to know whether to declare a crisis. Problem and severity assessment would provide information necessary in declaring a disaster. Once a potential crisis is recognized, the teams responsible for crisis management need to be notified. Delaying this step until a disaster has been declared would negate the effect of having response teams. Potential crisis recognition is the first step in responding to a disaster.
