An anti-money laundering consultant audits a bank's current anti-money laundering policies, procedures and controls. The bank serves high-income, high net-worth clients who include non-residents and offshore businesses. During a review of the customers list, the anti-money laundering consultant determines that he and the bank have mutual clients. The bank's written anti-money laundering program includes a process for the bank to establish the identity of the person with whom they conduct business, but does not address monitoring of customer account activity.

- The consultant should recommend the bank:
- A. Reduce the risk rating on the mutual customers.
  - B. Revise the procedures to better assess ongoing customer activity.
  - C. Continue to follow the current written anti-money laundering program.
  - D. Focus on high-risk customer acceptance procedures.
