NEW QUESTION: 1

What should you think about during the Mitigate Risk stage of the customer buying cycle? (Select two.)

- A. The customers stage in the maturity model
- B. The potential services you can offer
- C. Solution option considerations
- D. Potential customer objections
- E. The potential profit margin of the solution

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

The value proposition associated with HP solutions for business risk mitigation is that business risks can be mitigated by leveraging actual customer experiences to develop "best practices" that deal with the actual causes of business risk, thus reducing the operational costs incurred by disruptions and recoveries. Customers can accelerate their "learning curve" around these best practices by using services that build on proven reference architectures and by refreshing technology through updates to servers, storage, networking hardware, high-availability software, virtualization, data replication software, and data security and management software, as needed, to improve reliability, availability, and security.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Sally is optimizing her Google AdWords account for her catering hall. The catering hall is in an old castle near Phoenix, Arizona. The castle is a landmark for Phoenix residents and it's a popular place for weddings, banquets, and parties. Which one of the following is the best choice for targeting Sally's market to a very specific area?

- A. City targeting
- B. Region and City targeting
- C. Country targeting
- D. Customized targeting

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 3

You are working in a model that extends the Application Suite model, and you want to modify the insert method on the SalesLine table using X++ logic. The code looks like the following:

```
salesLineType.inserted();

The salesLineType.inserted() method appears as follows:

public void inserted()
{

You need to create a class to run code prior to running the salesLineType.inserted() method in the SalesLineType.insert() method.

What should you do?

- A. Customize the SalesLine table. Overwrite the insert() method and add your code immediately before the salesLineType.inserted() method.
- B. Create a new class, and add a method that is a pre-event handler for the salesLineType.inserted() method.
- C. Create a new class and extend the onlineserted event.
- D. Create a new class that extends the SalesLineType class. Overwrite the inserted method on your new class.

Answer: B
