NEW QUESTION: 1

A company has adopted a BYOD program. The company would like to protect confidential information.

However, it has been decided that when an employee leaves, the company will not completely wipe the personal device. Which of the following would MOST likely help the company maintain security when employees leave?

- A. Utilize an MDM solution with containerization
- B. Require that devices not have local storage
- C. Whitelist access to only non-confidential information
- D. Require cloud storage on corporate servers and disable access upon termination

Answer: A

Explanation:

Mobile device management (MDM) is a type of security software used by an IT department to monitor, manage and secure employees' mobile devices that are deployed across multiple mobile service providers and across multiple mobile operating systems being used in the organization.

A secure container, in a mobile security context, is an authenticated and encrypted area of an employee's device that separates sensitive corporate information from the owner's personal data and apps.

The purpose of containerization is to prevent malware, intruders, system resources or other applications from interacting with the secured application and associated corporate data.

Secure data containers are third-party mobile apps. The container acts as a storage area that is authenticated and encrypted by software and governed by corporate IT security policies. Such apps let IT enforce security policies on the same sensitive business data across different devices, which is especially useful because native device security capabilities vary.

As BYOD (bring your own device) and consumerization trends have grown, the challenges involved in protecting both corporate data and user privacy have also increased. Containerization is one means of providing administrators with full control over corporate applications and data without affecting those of the user.

Incorrect Answers:

A: This solution does nothing to prevent employees copying data to their personal devices and taking the data with them when they leave.

B: Allowing access to only non-confidential information will prevent employees from doing their jobs effectively.

D: All mobile devices have local storage. You cannot require that devices not have local storage.

NEW QUESTION: 3

EIGRP is configured on R5, but access-list 3 contains only deny statements so this will effectively block all routing advertisements from its two EIGRP neighbors, thus isolating R5 from the rest of the network. The configuration on R5 is as follows:

R5#show ip eigrp neighbors
Neighbor is not present
R5#show ip eigrp topology
IP EIGRP Topology Table
Codes: P - Passive, A - Active, S - Stuck in Active, F - Feasible, ! - Best Candidate,
* - Local Advertiser
R5#show ip eigrp neighbors
Neighbor is not present
R5#show ip eigrp topology
IP EIGRP Topology Table
Codes: P - Passive, A - Active, S - Stuck in Active, F - Feasible, ! - Best Candidate,
* - Local Advertiser

- A. R6 is not advertising routes to R5, so R5 is not advertising routes to R3.
- B. R5 is not advertising routes to R3, so R3 is not advertising routes to R6.
- C. R5 is not advertising routes to R3, so R3 is not advertising routes to R6.
- D. R3 is not advertising routes to R6, so R6 is not advertising routes to R5.

Answer : C

Explanation:

Explanation

Here we see that distribute list 3 has been applied to EIGRP on router R5, but access-list 3 contains only deny statements so this will effectively block all routing advertisements from its two EIGRP neighbors, thus isolating R5 from the rest of the network.
