NEW QUESTION: 1

How does EIGRP derive the metric for manual summary routes?

- A. It uses the worst metric vectors of all component routes in the topology table.
- B. It uses the best composite metric of any component route in the topology table.
- C. It uses the best metric vectors of all component routes in the topology table.
- D. It uses the worst composite metric of any component route in the topology table.

Answer: B

Explanation:

For example if your router has a routing table like this:
D 192.168.8.0/24 [90/2632528] via 192.168.0.1, 00:00:12, Serial0/0 D 192.168.9.0/24 [90/2323456] via 192.168.0.1, 00:00:12, Serial0/0 D 192.168.10.0/24 [90/2195456] via 192.168.0.1, 00:00:12, Serial0/0 D 192.168.11.0/24 [90/2323456]
via 192.168.0.1, 00:00:12, Serial0/0

Now suppose you want to manually summarize all the routes above, you can use this command (on the router that advertised these routes to our router):

```
Router(config-if)#ip summary-address eigrp 1 192.168.8.0
255.255.248.0

After that the routing table of your router will look like this:

D 192.168.8.0/21 [90/2195456] via 192.168.0.1, 00:01:42, Serial0/0

And we can see the manual summary route takes the smallest metric of the specific routes.
