Explanation:

An economic indicator is highly correlated with changes in aggregate economic activity. A leading indicator changes prior to a change in the direction of the business cycle. The leading indicators included in the Conference Board's index are average weekly hours worked by manufacturing workers, unemployment claims, consumer goods orders, stock prices, orders for fixed assets, building permits, timeliness of deliveries, money supply, consumer confidence, and the spread between the yield on 10-year Treasury bonds and the federal funds rate. An increase in weekly hours worked by production workers is favorable for economic growth.
