NEW QUESTION: 1

- A. 802.1d
- B. 802.1w
- C. 802.11
- D. 802.1x

Answer: D

Explanation:

802.1X authentication involves three parties: a supplicant, an authenticator, and an authentication server. The supplicant is a client device (such as a laptop) that wishes to attach to the LAN/WLAN. The term 'supplicant' is also used interchangeably to refer to the software running on the client that provides credentials to the authenticator. The authenticator is a network device, such as an Ethernet switch or wireless access point; and the authentication server is typically a host running software supporting the RADIUS and EAP protocols.

The authenticator acts like a security guard to a protected network. The supplicant (i.e., client device) is not allowed access through the authenticator to the protected side of the network until the supplicant's identity has been validated and authorized. An analogy to this is providing a valid visa at the airport's arrival immigration before being allowed to enter the country. With 802.1X port-based authentication, the supplicant provides credentials, such as user name/password or digital certificate, to the authenticator, and the authenticator forwards the credentials to the authentication server for verification. If the authentication server determines the credentials are valid, the supplicant (client device) is allowed to access resources located on the protected side of the network.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Hotspot Question

You are working for a company that designs mobile applications. They maintain a server where player records are assigned to their different games. The tracking system is new and in development.

The application uses Entity Framework to connect to an Azure Database. The database holds a Player table and Game table. When adding a player, the code should insert a new player record, and add a relationship between an existing game record and the new player record.

The application will call `CreatePlayerWithGame` with the correct `gameId` and the `playerId` to start the process. (Line numbers are included for reference only.)

For each of the following statements, select Yes if the statement is true. Otherwise, select No.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Explanation:

Many-to-many relationships without an entity class to represent the join table are not yet supported. However, you can represent a many-to-many relationship by including an entity class for the join table and mapping two separate one-to-many relationships.

```

.HasKey(t => new { t.PostId, t.TagId });
modelBuilder.Entity<PostTag>()

.WithMany(p => p.PostTags)
.HasForeignKey(pt => pt.PostId);
modelBuilder.Entity<PostTag>()
.HasOne(pt => pt.Tag)

.HasForeignKey(pt => pt.TagId);
}

NEW QUESTION: 4

An Amazon EC2 instance is configured with Auto Scaling. The instance is part of an Auto Scaling group with a maximum number of instances of 10. The instance is currently running. A new instance is being launched. What is the maximum number of instances that can be launched in the Auto Scaling group?

- A. 10
- B. 7
- C. 11
- D. 14

Answer: C

Explanation:

Auto

Scaling is a service that automatically adjusts the number of EC2 instances in your Auto Scaling group to maintain the desired capacity. When you create an Auto Scaling group, you specify a desired capacity. The number of instances in the group can increase or decrease based on the current capacity and the group's scaling policies. The maximum number of instances in the group is defined by the instance limit. The instance limit is the maximum number of instances that can be launched in the group. In this case, the instance limit is 10. The current number of instances is 1. Therefore, the maximum number of instances that can be launched is 11 (10 + 1).
