NEW QUESTION: 1

You are designing a .NET Framework 4 solution. The solution contains a Windows Presentation Foundation (WPF) application and a Windows Communication Foundation (WCF) Web service. The WPF application uses the WCF Web service to store data in a Microsoft SQL Server 2008 database.

You have the following requirements:

Ensure that the WPF application functions while users' computers are offline.

Minimize the time spent sending data to the WCF Web service.

Minimize disk space requirements for data storage.

You need to recommend an approach for synchronizing data between the WPF application and the database.

Which two actions should you recommend? (Each correct answer presents part of the solution. Choose two.)

A. Create a local caching solution that periodically checks for Internet connectivity and writes directly to the local data store and to the WCF Web service.

B. Store data in DataSet objects. Serialize data locally by using XML serialization.
