NEW QUESTION: 1

When preference shares are cumulative, the dividend, whether earned or not, is deducted from profit or loss from continuing operations and profit or loss, or added to any loss for the year, in computing earnings or loss. When preference shares are noncumulative, an adjustment is made for dividends declared. If the dividend is cumulative only if earned, no adjustment is necessary except to the extent of available income: that is, the preference dividends accumulate only to the extent of profit or loss.
