- B. View alerts and take appropriate actions to keep Windows running smoothly.
- C. Choose options during system startup.
- D. Manage the documents in the print queue.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 3

You are designing a data warehouse for a fresh food distribution business that stores sales by individual product. It stores sales targets by product category. Products are classified into subcategories and categories.

Each product is included in only a single product subcategory, and each subcategory is included in only a single category.

The data warehouse will be a data source for an Analysis Services cube.

The data warehouse contains two fact tables:

factSales, used to record daily sales by product

factProductTarget, used to record the monthly sales targets by product category

Reports must be developed against the warehouse that reports product sales by product, category and subcategory, and product sales targets.

You need to design the product dimension. The solution should use as few tables as possible while supporting all the requirements.

What should you do?

A. Create three product tables, dimProduct, dimProductCategory, and dimProductSubcategory. Connect factSales to all three product tables and connect factProductTarget to dimProductCategory with foreign key constraints. Direct the cube developer to use key granularity attributes.

B. Create one product table, dimProduct, which contains product detail, category, and subcategory columns. Connect factSales to dimProduct with a foreign key constraint. Direct the cube developer to use a non-key granularity attribute for factProductTarget.

C. Create two product tables, dimProduct and dimProductCategory. Connect factSales to dimProduct and factProductTarget to dimProductCategory with foreign key constraints. Direct the cube developer to use key granularity attributes.

D. Create three product tables, dimProduct, dimProductCategory, and dimProductSubcategory, and a fourth bridge table that joins products to their appropriate category and subcategory table records with foreign key constraints. Direct the cube developer to use key granularity attributes.

NEW QUESTION: 4

Which of the following database controls would ensure that the integrity of transactions is maintained in an online transaction processing system's database?

A. Authentication controls

- B. Data normalization controls
- C. Read/write access log controls
- D. Commitment and rollback controls

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Commitment and rollback controls are directly relevant to integrity. These controls ensure that database operations that form a logical transaction unit will complete in its entirety or not at all; i.e., if, for some reason, a transaction cannot be fully completed, then incomplete inserts/updates/deletes are rolled back so that the database returns to its pretransaction state. All other choices would not address transaction integrity.
