NEW QUESTION: 3

Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. You have a standard primary zone names contoso.com. You need to ensure that only users who are members of a group named Group1 can create DNS records in the contoso.com zone. All other users must be prevented from creating, modifying, or deleting DNS records in the zone.

What should you do first?

- A. From the properties of the zone, modify the Start Of Authority (SOA) record.
- B. Run the Zone Signing Wizard for the zone.
- C. From the properties of the zone, change the zone type.
- D. Run the new Delegation Wizard for the zone.

Answer: C

Explanation:

B. The Zone would need to be changed to a AD integrated zone. When you use directory-integrated zones, you can use access control list (ACL) editing to secure a dnsZone object container in the directory tree. This feature provides detailed access to either the zone or a specified resource record in the zone. For example, an ACL for a zone resource record can be restricted so that dynamic updates are allowed only for a specified client computer or a secure group, such as a domain administrators group. This security feature is not available with standard primary zones.
