NEW QUESTION: 1

A user reports difficulties accessing certain external web pages, When examining traffic to and from the external domain in full packet captures, you notice many SYNs that have the same sequence number, source, and destination IP address, but have different payloads. Which problem is a possible explanation of this situation?

- A. TCP injection
- B. insufficient network resources
- C. failure of full packet capture solution
- D. misconfiguration of web filter

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2

Refer to the exhibit. Router RR1 is not able to select a best path for prefix 11.11.11.0/24. What is the root cause of this issue?

- A. BGP Next-Hop Tracking feature is disabled on R02 and R04.
- B. The RR1 routing table has no specific route to reach the BGP next hops.
- C. R02 and R04 neighbors negotiated via BGP capability a BGP Prefix-Based Outbound Route Filtering, which filters 11.11.11.0/24 prefix.
- D. Selective BGP Next-Hop Route Filtering is enabled, which marks the BGP next hop as unreachable.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 3

A customer is planning to install a new, highly available, IBM FileNet P8 environment that spans two data centers that are relatively close together and connected by very high speed, redundant, data connections. The network latency between data centers is less than 1 ms. One of the design goals of this enterprise tier implementation is to have both data centers be as active as possible regarding the processing of P8 data. IBM FileNet Enterprise Manager (FEM) will be configured to treat both data centers as a single site. WebSphere Application Server Network Deployment (WAS-ND) has been chosen to host Content Engine (CE) and Workplace XT (WPXT).

Which of the following choices both meets the criteria of the scenario and follows IBM best practices?

- A. Configure WAS-ND as a single cell spanning both data centers. Create a cluster for WPXT with member nodes at both data centers. Create a cluster for CE with member nodes at both data centers. Install the CE software on the WAS Deployment Manager node and deploy the EAR file to the CE cluster. Install WPXT on each cluster member node and deploy one WPXT EAR file to the WPXT cluster. Use hardware load balancers and HTTP proxy servers to spread client traffic across the WPXT cluster's members. Configure WPXT to point to the members of the CE cluster.
- B. Configure WAS-ND as a single cell spanning both data centers. Create two clusters for WPXT, one for each data center. Create two clusters for CE, one for each data center. Install the CE software on the WAS Deployment Manager node and deploy the EAR file to each CE cluster. Install WPXT on each cluster member node (of each WPXT cluster) and deploy one WPXT EAR file to each WPXT cluster. Use hardware load balancers and HTTP proxy servers to spread client traffic across the two WPXT clusters' members. Configure each WPXT cluster to point to the CE cluster in its respective data center.
- C. Configure two WAS-ND cells, one for each site. In each cell, create one cluster for WPXT and one cluster for CE. Create the CE clusters with identical names. Install the CE software on the WAS Deployment Manager node and deploy the EAR file to each CE cluster. Install WPXT on each cluster member node and deploy one WPXT EAR file to each WPXT cluster. Use hardware load balancers and HTTP proxy servers to spread client traffic across the two WPXT clusters' members. Configure each WPXT cluster to point to a list of all CE cluster members across both data centers.

D. Configure two WAS-ND cells, one for each site. In each cell, create one cluster for WPXT and one cluster for CE. Install the CE software on the WAS Deployment Manager node and deploy the EAR file to each CE cluster. Install WPXT on each cluster member node and deploy one WPXT EAR file to each WPXT cluster. Use hardware load balancers and HTTP proxy servers to spread client traffic across the two WPXT clusters' members. Configure each WPXT cluster to point to the CE cluster in its respective data center.
