myvtpdomain. The VTP domain is created with the command switch(config)# vtp domain {domainname}. The mode of the switch is defined with the command switch(config)# vtp mode {mode}. The possible modes are server, client, and transparent. Server means that the switch can be used to create, delete, and modify VLANs; and send and receive advertisements about VLAN changes. Client means that the switch cannot be used to create or change VLANs, but only send and receive advertisements, adjusting its own database to match advertisements that it hears. Transparent means that the switch can be used to create, delete, and modify VLANs; but does not advertise those changes to other switches. Any advertisements that a transparent switch receives are forwarded on to other switches, but not applied by the switch. The commands vtp domain server and vtp server myvtpdomain are not valid due to incorrect syntax.
