NEW QUESTION: 2

Sometimes its important to remove an RODC from your forest or domain.

However, its important that you follow a simple rule whilst removing RODC's.

What is this rule?

- A. There are no rules for removing RODC's
- B. All RODC's must be detached before removing a final writable domain controller
- C. Your forest must only consist of RODC's if you want to remove them
- D. All writable domain controllers must be removed before RODC's can be detached

Answer: B

Explanation:

This make more sense After researching this and using logic, we need a writable DC for a RODC to exist, therefore we have to remove all RODC's before removing the last writable DC.

PRIOR Explanation (answer D, no rule): A is not about an RODC removal but about a writable DC and anyway if there is no more RWDC, RODC is non sense... either i don't understand the goal of the question or it's simply the last answer (no rules)

<http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/cc835490%28WS.10%29.aspx> RODC Removal and Reinstallation This topic describes the different options and steps for removing a read-only domain controller (RODC) from a domain. The following are the basic methods for removing Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS) from an RODC:

You can remove AD DS and the RODC computer account in a single operation by using an account that is a member of the Domain Admins or Enterprise Admins groups. You can remove AD DS and the RODC computer account by using a two-stage operation, in which an RODC delegated administrator removes AD DS from the RODC and then a member of Domain Admins or Enterprise Admins removes the RODC computer account. A delegated RODC administrator can remove AD DS from a computer--to repair the software installation or even replace the hardware--and then reinstall the RODC without intervention from a member of Domain Admins or Enterprise Admins. =>no particular requirement... so far, the only requirements i know is about stolen or compromised RODC (we should reset all the passwords that were stored in it but that's it.

NEW QUESTION: 3

Which statement correctly describes the offline capabilities of Microsoft Dynamics CRM for Outlook?

- A. If the client goes offline because connectivity is lost, the client automatically goes online when connectivity is restored.
- B. When working offline, workflows are executed locally against all cached data.
- C. If two users make changes to the same field in a record, both changes are retained in the record.
- D. When working online, locally cached data will be updated every five minutes.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Incorrect: not A: How CRM handles changes from multiple users. CRM applies additions and changes to the CRM server in the same order they're entered. If you make a change to a record while you're offline, and another user changes the same record during that time, when you go back online, your change will overwrite the changes that the other user made while you were offline. Not C: When you work offline, CRM disables workflow notifications. If the changes you make offline are set to trigger an automated workflow process or a system job, the process is automatically triggered when you go back online.
